

HETEROSTRUCTURE SEMICONDUCTOR DEVICE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A heterostructure semiconductor device that includes a composite layer between an active layer and a gate. The composite layer includes a strain matching layer and a barrier layer. The strain matching layer reduces the strain between the barrier layer and the active layer. The device can incorporate various additional layers as well as gate and/or contact configurations to obtain desired device performance characteristics.